Cursor_ is a theological open access journal with the aim of bringing academic debates, innovative formats, and different publics together digitally.

Cursor_ is a journal for explorative theology: questioning, experimental, provisional

... looks for intersections beyond discursive boundaries

... focuses on contemporary developments

... makes room for positioning as well as open questions

... develops new forms for participatory and interactive conversations

https://heiup.uni-heidelberg.de/journals/cursor https://cursor.pubpub.org
Cursor_ is a theological workshop where questions at the intersection of church, academy and society are treated in an interdisciplinary and innovative way. Cursor_ connects peer reviewed academic writing with innovative formats (“theology in simple language”, “lab reports”, essayistic texts, etc.). It uses the possibilities of digital platforms for more inclusive and participatory discussions.

In bi-annual issues, relevant topics are engaged from a variety of perspectives. Publications are in German or English. PubPub allows a wider public to discuss texts online, comment on them, and connect them with other texts. The revised versions appear in print and in Heidelberg University Publishing’s OJS.

Published:
Vol 1/19_Neuland
Vol 2/19_Identität

In Preparation:
Vol 1/20_Theologies of the Digital
Vol 2/20_Dämonen

Editors: Arne Bachmann, Dennis Dietz, Benedikt Friedrich, Rasmus Nagel, Hanna Reichel, Thomas Renkert, Frederike van Oorschot